CATALOGUE of GLADOLI

“Bulbs of Quality”

Spring of 1927

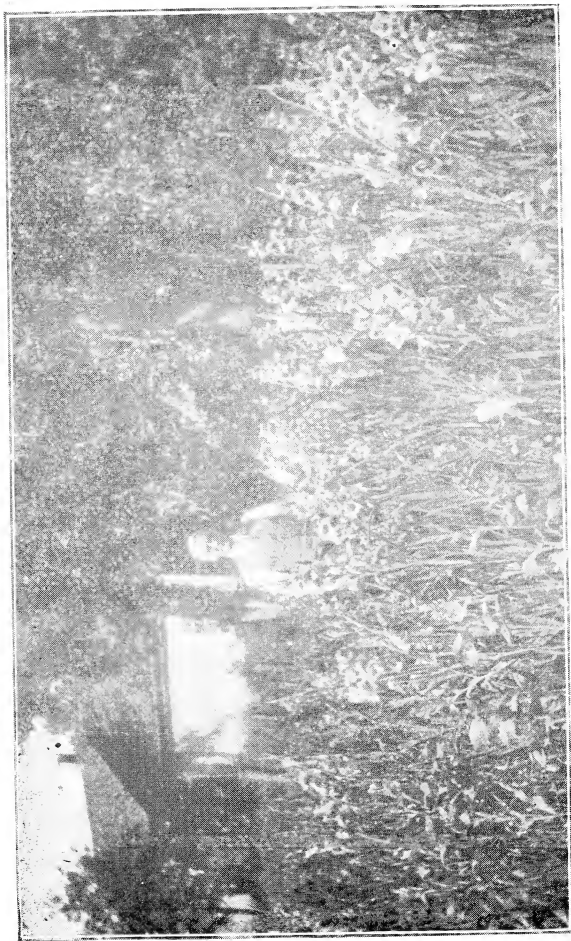

GEORGE H. SAXE
CHAZY, N. Y.

IT gives us great pleasure to present to you our 1927 Catalogue. We come with not only an increased number of varieties, but with a list that we have found to be worthy of a place in every flower lovers garden. This is our second Catalogue and we respectfully ask for your consideration.

We received many favorable comments on our first Catalogue in which we promised we would issue a larger and better one this year, this we are endeavoring to do, we were particularly pleased with the letters for information from flower growers especially gladiolus growers from all over the country and the letters of praise for the bulbs they ordered from us were certainly gratifying. This year we have dropped from our list several that were listed last year as well as some we had in our trial grounds, and catalogued only these that we consider worthy. We take this opportunity to thank those who have so kindly placed their order with us in the past and trust you will continue to come to us for more varieties from year to year. We appreciate your patronage and promise you the best service possible.

The descriptions given of each variety listed in this catalogue are as near as possible the exact descriptions given by their originators. I prefer these rather than my own. The gladioli of today have become the most fashionable of all flowers no other flower can compare for adaptability, it can be cut when the first bloom opens and placed in water and it will continue to open until the last bud on top has died, something no other flower will do.

MR. SAXE IN A CORNER OF HIS GARDEN

CHAZY is situated in Clinton County, New York near Lake Champlain, some 10 miles from the Canadian line and 14 miles north of Plattsburgh on the Delaware & Hudson Rail Road, autoists reach Chazy on the beautiful new concrete highway running between Rouses Point and Montreal on the north and Plattsburgh, Saratoga and Albany on the South.

Clinton County and especially Chazy with its Lime stone soil that grows the best flavored sweet corn and produces the finest Maple Syrup in the world also grows the hardest and most productive gladioli, bulbs of quality and dependibility, bulbs that produce prize winners, northern grown bulbs like northern grown seed are considered the best.

The Gladioli surpasses all other flowers for cutting purposes and long keeping qualities, for the best results cut the spikes when the first blossoms open and let them bloom in the house, each morning remove wilted blossoms and cut a little off the stems cutting with a slanting slope (not square) and give fresh water. Placing them in a cool cellar over night refreshes and revives them. Do not cut stems with a dull knife they will last longer if a sharp knife is used.

If watering is resorted to, it should be done in the early morning or late afternoon. Better moisten to the roots or not at all, as a slight wetting of the surface will draw the roots upwards.

The gladioli can be sent hundreds of miles and arrive in good condition, providing the flower spike is sent in bud.

Hot water revives wilted flowers better than cold.

Flowering bulbs are from $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches in size and larger. Do not think because a bulb is not as large as a base ball it is worthless, for often the best and most satisfactory blossoms are raised from the smaller sizes.

Gladioli grow well in almost any soil. A good sunny location where you would plant your choicest variety of potatoes, is just the place for them.

Bulbs should be planted from 3 to 5 inches apart and from 4 to 6 inches deep according to size. A large bulb planted 6 inches deep produces blossoms and stands up better than if planted nearer the surface.

Now regarding the time to begin planting there can be no fast rule on account of the weather and the condition of the soil. Central New York usually after May 12 as settled weather can be counted on by that time. For successions of bloom you may plant at intervals of a week or ten days until July 1 and be certain of full flowering stalks.

"Bulbs of Quality"

It should be remembered that bulbs should be cleaned about six weeks after digging, that is, to remove the old bulb and all roots and bulblets. To leave this on until planting time is an injury to the bulbs.

Remember the gladiolus loves the sun and should not be planted in shade of trees or buildings.

Lake Champlain Mixture

Besides our named varieties we have two mixtures that have taken well with the public and are still going strong, my Champlain mixture has been on the market for several years. This mixture is one of the best we know of. Large, plump, clean bulbs, carefully wrapped and every one named. Twelve all different named values for $1.00

Star Mixture

In this assortment appear many varieties not listed in our catalogue. Every bulb whatever its price that in any way gets out of place, or a box from which a label is lost all go into the make up of this assortment, from this grand mixture we will send you 20 for 1.00 (post paid to any port of the United States.)

If you purchase the named varieties be sure to mark each variety as you plant it. A good way to mark is to take a lath or slat off a mellow crate; plane it smooth; sharpen one end and write your name on it with a lead pencil. This will be legible for the whole season. A lath will make two markers which can be smoothed off and used again the next year.

Any good potato or garden fertilizer, strong in potash, is good for the gladiolus.

Money Order or Cash must accompany all orders and all bulbs will be mailed prepaid anywhere in the United States without charge for packing.

We do not substitute unless permission is granted. On receipt of your order, if sold out of varieties wanted we will notify you and if no substitute is wanted we will return your money.

Although all bulbs are quoted by the dozen three varieties may be selected to make the twelve but not less than one dozen will be sent in any one order.

We begin to ship about March 15th or as soon as all danger of freezing is passed.

The old saying is, "There never was a man so good but a good woman will make him better." How true this is and how few men will admit it. You may have a beautiful garden, wonderful, and yet how a bed of well-arranged gladioli makes it better and more attractive in every way.

We would advise that you place your orders as early as possible as our supply of a number of varieties is very limited.

There are no flowers grown that will give so much satisfaction. Tall, graceful and beautiful.
